ABSTRACT

This annotated bibliography has been prepared by the Women's Educational Equity Communications Network as a guide for faculty and administrators considering initiating or expanding a women's studies program or for anycne interested in women's studies at the elementary, secondary, or post-secondary levels. Eighty-three entries include annotated bibliographies, guides to print and nonprint materials, periodicals and jcurnals, textbooks, supplementary classroom reading, curriculum models, and program evaluations, as well as organizations and existing women's studies programs, and regional contact sources. It is designed to be current but not comprehensive. The bibliography is divided into five parts listing general resources, elementary/secondary educational resources, higher educational resources, organizations and programs, and regional contact sources. Each entry includes title, date, bibliographic and availability information, price, and a brief annotation. Addresses and ERIC document numbers are included when relevant. (CK)

RESOURCE ROUNDUP:

DESIGNING A WOMEN'S STUDIES PROGRAM

This bibliography is one in a series of RESOURCE ROUNDUPS published by the Women's Educational Equity Communications Network (WEECN). This is a practical guide for faculty and administrators considering initiating or expanding a women's studies program or anyone interested in women's studies at the elementary, secondary, or post-secondary levels. The resources include annotated bibliographies and guides to print and nonprint materials, textbooks, supplementary classroom reading, curriculum models, and program evaluations. In addition, we have listed some regional contact resources who can provide information and assistance to individuals and groups working in women's studies. This is not an exhaustive bibliography, many classic works have been omitted. Rather, we designed it as a brief list containing only the most current material.

This ROUNDUP was compiled by Kendra R. Bonnett, WEECN Editor, and Joan Borus, Editoral Assistant. We would like to thank Sharon Strover, former User Services Specialist, for putting together an early version of this bibliography, and Florence Howe, Professor of Humanities at the State University of New York, College at Old Westbury, and among the founders of The Feminist Press, for her input into that version. We are also grateful to the National Women's Studies Association for supplying the list of regional contacts. Finally, we wish to thank Maija Blaubergs, First Vice-President, Southeastern Women's Studies Association, and Carolyn Joyner, Women's Program Staff, U.S. Office of Education, for reviewing the final copy.

This project has been sponsored with Federal funds from the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, United States Office of Education, Women's Educational Equity Act, under contract number 300-77-0135. The contents of this publication do not necessarily reflect the views or policies of the United States Office of Education, the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, nor does mention of trade names, commercial products, or organization imply endorsement by the United States Government. Material in this bulletin may be reprinted without prior permission, but credit would be appreciated. Discrimination prohibited.

For further information on WEECN services and publications, or to be placed on the mailing list, write WEECN. Single copies of this bibliography are available free by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope.
